

trade with the countries opposing the Teutons and Turks. He says, for instance, that "supplying arms and ammunition to one side while the other has her hands tied may be an Anglo-American brand of neutrality, but it is a mighty cowardly brand."

Sees Danger Lurking.

He goes further and states that "instead of standing by the Constitution and the country's natural aversion, she (the United States) has been used as a tool for another." "British-Masonic civilization" is another term applied. Then follow these warnings to the American people:

"There is danger lurking in many quarters, which may burst into flames at any moment."

"As those denouncing the country are not independent to act impartially they have best not meddle with the German factor and the Latin nations at this critical moment."

"There is danger from within as well as from abroad, for the reason that duplicity of the Anglo-American combination has been worked overtime and it is due to react."

SONS MUST PAY COSTS IN HUTCHINS WILL CASE

Court Rules They Are to Bear Expenses of Litigation, Between $100,000 and $150,000.

Justice Stafford in District Supreme Court yesterday ruled that the expenses involved in the litigation over the will of William Hutchins, millionaire newspaper owner, must be paid out of the estate, but by the two sons of the deceased. The litigation is said to have been between the two sons, Walter and Charles L. Hutchins, and the will of Mr. Hutchins, who died in 1908, provided that the estate should be divided between the two sons. The court has ordered that the expenses of the litigation be paid by the two sons, and that the will be admitted to probate.

The estate of Mr. Hutchins, who died in 1908, was valued at $1,000,000. The will provided that the estate should be divided between the two sons, Walter and Charles L. Hutchins. The court has ordered that the expenses of the litigation be paid by the two sons, and that the will be admitted to probate.

He estimated the value of the three pairs at $8, and he has asked the police to aid him in recovering his property.

Duds, Cash and Huckster License Vanish While Mr. Dudley Dozes

David B. Dudley, of 611 1/2 Park road northwest, lay down in a field near Rittenhouse street last Wednesday night and fell asleep. The night was hot and Dudley slept long and sound. When he woke he was a poorer man.

Dudley is a bookster by profession. He looked at his breast to see if he really was himself. His huckster badge and license, numbered 610, were gone. He remembered that when he fell asleep he had $5.30 in his pocket. With downcast spirits, empty pockets, stockinged feet and uncovered head, Dudley trudged to the police substation at Tennallytown. "Gentlemen," he announced sadly, "I have been robbed—yes, utterly."

SOFT CLAM TO MAKE DEBUT HERE SEPT. 16

Chamber of Commerce Members Will Be Given Opportunity to Eat Them at Outing.

The business men of the National Capital who are fortunate enough to be members of the Chamber of Commerce are to have a taste of the famous New England "soft" clam on the annual outing and shore dinner of the chamber at Chesapeake Beach on September 16.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Fred J. Mersheimer, chairman of the shore dinner committee. Mr. Mersheimer thinks it a shame that the epicures of the chamber never have had a chance to swallow the delicious, juicy soft clam which all New England loves.

In order to introduce the shore dinner committee to the soft clam, Mr. Mersheimer yesterday called for a lunch which he will give at the Alhambra Garden, 601 E street northeast, on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to the members of the dinner committee.

"After those dinner committee members taste that soft clam," said Mr. Mersheimer, "they will unanimously endorse my plan to eat the soft clam as an entrant on the shore dinner menu."

MISS WALTON KILLED SELF, SAYS CORONER

Beautiful Girl of Twenty Said to Have Been Despondent Over Mother's Death.

Despondency over the sudden death last February of her mother is believed to have caused Miss Constance Walton, 20 years old, daughter of Dr. J. Roland Walton, to commit suicide yesterday afternoon at her home, 3222 Nineteenth street northwest, by shooting herself through the heart.

Miss Walton, who was extremely beautiful and who had a wide circle of friends, fired but one shot, death ensuing almost immediately. She had been on the front piazza of her house a short time prior to killing herself.

The coroner's office certificate stated that Miss Walton had met death at her own hands while in a state of intense melancholia.

OPPOSE CHANGE IN HOURS.

Capitol Police Vote for Continuance of Present Plan.

Members of the United States Capitol police force have voted a majority of four to have their present working hours continued. At present the men are working from 7 p. m. to 3 a. m., with a break from the latter hour to 8 a. m. the following morning and then working until 7 p. m. Under this plan the policemen work thirteen hours a day and eleven hours another, with the periods of rest so regulated that at the expiration of a week each man has worked an average of eight hours a day.

R. E. Gordon and Charles P. Higgins, sergeants-at-arms in charge of the police force, are of the opinion that the plan should be changed, believing that the men are much less efficient after working eight hours at a stretch. The question was put to a referendum vote.

U-BOATS NEED MOTHER SHIPS

Proposed Navy Advisers Must Evolve Submarine Freighters.

HIGHER SPEED WANTED

Secretary Daniels Seeks Twenty-five-knot Undersea Boats and New Type of Supply Vessel.

The development of the submarine as an offensive weapon virtually independent of surface fleets is the first problem which the Navy Department will lay before the advisory board of civilian inventors, of which Thomas A. Edison has accepted chairmanship.

Among the improvements in submarine ships which the Navy Department wants are:

1. Submarines capable of making up-wards of twenty-five knots an hour on the surface.

2. Submarine supply ships of large freight-carrying capacity and steaming radius capable of supplying fleets of sea-going submarines with fuel, food and parts, thus furnishing a sea base for submarine fleets and making them independent of surface ships.

Edison Already Busy. On the first of these problems Mr. Edison already is at work. The Navy Department having ordered from him batteries which may play a large part in solving the speed difficulty. Naval constructors as well as working on improvements which may solve the problem.

This problem was first presented in the naval appropriations bill of last year, which called for two sea-going submarines of a speed of not less than twenty-one knots or more than twenty-five knots an hour. While officially it is given out that the department expects to meet these specifications, one well known naval constructor said yesterday that with existing propellers twenty-five knots would be impossible.

The second of the two problems involves not only propulsion improvements, but alterations in lines and material which may revolutionize naval construction. Recently there was talk of the organization of a syndicate to construct submarine vessels with a freight capacity of 2,500 tons. It is suspected, moreover, that the German navy has one or more submarine supply ships such as are suggested for the United States navy.

Charles P. Steinmetz, chief engineer of the General Electric Company, who is prominently mentioned as a member of the advisory board, recently suggested not only the submarine supply ship, but the heavily armed submarine cruiser as well, stating that the problem was largely a matter of propulsion and electrical mechanism.

That the minds of the inventive geniuses of the country are turned to the problems of modern warfare, is indicated by statements appearing in the press of the country from these men.

hoped some way would be found to distribute the benefit of inventions useful to the government, and that such a fund would be a standing incentive to inventive minds to work along lines of usefulness to the government.

It was made known at the Navy Department yesterday that plans and specifications for all the new building authorized by the last Congress soon will be completed, and that contracts probably will be awarded for all of it by December 1. The Bureau of Construction and Repair is working on plans for two battleships, eighteen submarines, and six destroyers.

Bids for the work of constructing sixteen sea coast submarines will be opened on September 29. A few later bids will be opened on the work of building two sea-going submarines. On October 5 proposals will be opened for the contracts for the six destroyers. Each of these vessels will carry an aeroplane. Early in November, if present plans are carried out, bids will be opened for the work of constructing the two battleships authorized by Congress at the last session.
